Join us for this unique & exciting professional development opportunity!

The Social Justice Seminars is an 8 week series for individuals working in social work or related fields, interested in issues of equity, social justice & critical/anti-oppressive thought.

The Seminars distinct format combines relationships, reciprocity and reflection to create an at-home feel where deep and shared learning opportunities emerge for professional and personal development.

The facilitators combine the best learning environment formats with an essential therapeutic environment to elicit & engage participants in dialogue related to topics relevant to their heads, hearts, spirits and hands!

WHO SHOULD COME:

Those who:

- Work in the helping field who have an interest in issues of justice, equity & social change
- Want to build their professional & personal community
- Prefer dialogue, discussion and interaction with others
- Like to challenge themselves
- Have or desire an enhanced critical lens
- Are looking to change the way we do things as helping professionals & find others who do too
- Want a really cool way to fulfill their MCSW or other professional development hours!
- Want good company, good discussion, good food and drink – that's all included!
